Insights & Inspiration

"Gestures of Kindness"

When was the last time someone surprised you with an unforgettable gesture of kindness? An unexpected expression of gratitude or generosity that brought you incredible joy?

Last month, a friend of mine named Heather, brought me a bouquet of fragrant flowers neatly arranged in a home-made hanging paper vase. I had never seen such a unique floral display before and was very moved by her gesture. She handed me the bouquet and said, "Happy May Day!" On May 1 every year, she prepares floral bouquets and delivers surprises by placing the flowers on the handle of their respective front door.

How sweet is this act of kindness?
Here is the special bouquet I received!

When is the last time you surprised someone with a random act of kindness? Make someone's day today and experience the brightness in your heart that the gesture of "giving" provides.

Key Concept

"The Price of Shame"

This is a brave, authentic and truly vulnerable talk. It highlights an all-too-common issue that is growing at an alarming rate. I hope her message inspires you, filling you with a sense of greater compassion, understanding, and strength---just as it did for me. She is an articulate and polished young lady who courageously shares her story. Click here to watch this video.

Amazingly Talented!

These Hungarian dancers, known as "Attraction", are truly talented. Watch this short clip and you will be amazed!

"Attraction"

What do you think? Is this a truth or lie?

"Multi-tasking Increases Productivity"

It's a big, fat lie!

LIE

TRUTH OR LIE?

Each time we are distracted our brains have to refocus. The same is true each time we switch back and forth between two tasks. The more complex the tasks are the longer it takes to recover from the switch. Ultimately we end up wasting time, not saving time. Click here to read "the proof"!
